

Letting go

(Words : Fede Conte – Lyrics : Fede Conte)

Opening my eyes towards every new morning, never knowing whether he'll be there.

Just like facing you with either the truth or a lie for breakfast.

Spinning up an ancient tune that reminds us of me and you.

Another day ticked away, every hour has crushed me

I can't seem to be able to find my way

Clinging to a bridge

I consciously let go

A jump into the Void

Impossible to leave without a drop of poetry's dew

Impossible to go just like that,

each on our own way

If tomorrow would arrive before today, my mind would find another way

I am stealing red stardust that gets feeds to my very heart

And even though I can still see

Something carrying me, something saving me

Throughout your thorough gaze

Impossible to leave without a drop of poetry's dew

Impossible to go just like that,

each on our own way

Impossible to just go crazy now

Impossible to leave, each one of us...alone

Through my tears, I can see people making fun of me

When I tell them that I still believe in our future

Impossible to leave without a drop of poetry's dew

Impossible to go just like that,

each on our own way

Impossible to just go crazy now

Impossible to leave, each one of us...alone